

SNEHA VILLALVA

SPEAKER | WRITER

Sneha Villalva (Snay-hah Vee-YALL-vuh) is a speechwriter, storyteller and speaker.

A former journalist for The Press-Enterprise in Southern California, she has also served as an executive speechwriter for college and university leaders at UCLA and Pomona College.

Sneha is a member of the Speakers Institute Protégé cohort and a Maxwell-certified speaker, honing her craft among global thought leaders and top-tier communicators.

With a gift for blending strategic insight, empathy and narrative finesse, Sneha's speeches, op-eds, poetry and features have appeared in outlets such as National Public Radio (NPR), HuffPost, Associated Press, Sojourners, The London Reader, India Currents and The Arroyo Channel.

Sneha is married and lives in Los Angeles County.

Ready to inspire your audience? Book Sneha today.